

KNOWS NOTHING
OF PLAN TO MOVE
DIVISION OFFICES

Supt. Hollingsworth Thinks Report
From Corbin Unfounded—
No New Trackage
There Planned

IMPROVED SERVICE FOR
HARLAN DISTRICT ORDERED

C. B. Hollingsworth, Cumberland Valley superintendent, stated this morning that he knew nothing about plans to move division offices from Middlesboro to Corbin as indicated in this week's Corbin-Tribune. "I don't believe the offices will be taken away from Middlesboro," said Mr. Hollingsworth. "This is the logical place for the offices as most of the coal operators are in this field and it is important to be in close communication with them. It is as important for a railroad to take care of the industries which it serves as of its shops and equipment."

Part of the article which the Corbin paper printed follows: "It is now a generally accepted fact that the Louisville & Nashville Railroad is planning great things for Corbin during 1923."

"It is said that new back shops are to be put in at the round house, which will give employment to 2,000 additional shopmen. The capacity of the yards will be enlarged by 30 miles of trackage; and the Dorothy dam is to be raised twelve feet and an additional story will be built to the passenger station. This will be necessary in order to accommodate the division offices which are to be moved here from Middlesboro. "An official of the L. & N. outlined this program of improvements in a recent conversation with city officials. It has long been predicted that Corbin would eventually be designated as the location of division offices and that she would in time be one of the greatest division terminals in this section of the country."

In regard to the extension of trackage, it was authoritatively stated here a few days ago by a high L. & N. official that this railroad did not intend to spend another dollar on track at Corbin in the near future, although it was considering some improvement in engines.

Mr. Hollingsworth spoke also of the improvement in service for the Harlan line. Two parlor cars are to be put on each of the trains between here and Lynch and it has been arranged that any one who wishes to take a sleeper through to Louisville or Cincinnati can change from the parlor car to the sleeper as soon as they get in here and the wait in Middlesboro may be spent in the pullman. This was done as a compromise for the through train which Harlan demanded.

Harlan wanted a train to run to High Split from Louisville, but this, said Mr. Hollingsworth, is impossible. The L. & N. now has its schedule arranged so that it serves the forty-nine miles of Clover Fork, taking them to work in the morning and bringing them back to Harlan at night with a through passenger, the same travel could not be served. Besides, he said, the Cumberland Valley Division recently took a canvass and found that there was much more travel in sleepers south of Pineville, from both Louisville and Cincinnati, than in the Harlan district. Most of the Harlan travel, he indicated, was by the workers who preferred going in the day time.

REV. GIBSON'S FINAL
SERMON LAST NIGHT

Total of 137 Conversions During Stay
Dr. Martin to Conclude Revival—
Sunday

A total of one hundred and three additions have been made to the membership of the First Baptist church during the two weeks' revival campaign conducted by Rev. Dudley F. Gibson of Louisville. One hundred and thirty seven conversions have resulted. Rev. Gibson left for Louisville last night after the close of the service, though the revival will not close until Sunday night.

In his sermon, "God's Attitude Toward Sinners," last night, Rev. Gibson commented at length upon Christ's sacrifice upon the cross for the sins of the world. The quality of his love is proven by the character of the men for whom he died, the minister explained. Other men make sacrifices for friends, mothers give their lives for their children, but this is not to be compared with the great sacrifice made by Jesus for the vilest sinners. Thirteen joined the church last night. Most of those who have joined during the revival campaign have been adults. The total membership of the church is said to be in excess of one thousand now.

The house was packed last night every available seat being taken. The excellent song service conducted by Fred Scholfield was supplemented by songs by the Hoe brothers quartette. The revival services will continue during the Sunday morning and evening services. The sermon subject for the morning will be "How and When a Man is Saved," while that of the evening will be "Where and Why a Man is Saved."

A special program has been arranged for the Sunday school service tomorrow morning. Special music will be furnished by the male quartette, the mixed quartette and the ladies trio.

NEGRO WOMAN REBUKES P.O.
LICE COURT FOR INJUSTICE

Excitement prevailed at the police headquarters yesterday afternoon when a colored woman of generous build entered and loudly declared that the ebony-skinned prisoner, evidently her husband, had not sold any "hooch". Efforts were made to calm the woman but her protestations became louder and louder.

"You'll be in jail inside of two minutes and half of that time is already up," she was reminded by the chief guard of the law.

"Put me in," she said, defiantly, but nevertheless she withdrew to the door of the city hall where she began weeping loudly and bemoaning the alleged miscarriage of justice.

FISCAL COURT STARTS
MAKING YEAR'S BUDGET

PINEVILLE, Jan. 19.—The Fiscal Court of Bell County met Wednesday in Judge Baughman's office and began the work of making a budget for the year. A few claims were heard and the first steps taken but it will take the court until the latter part of the week to finish its work. Members of the court are Judge Baughman, M. B. Creech, Noah Howard, John L. Wilson, Garret Taylor, Jacob Schmitz, C. G. Smyth, G. W. Fields and O. B. Thompson. They are the magistrates of the various districts.

WOMEN PLAN DAILY
PRAYER SERVICES

Town Districted in Six Groups With Key Women—Meet Each
Day at 10 a. m.

The women of the Presbyterian church, under the direction of Dr. Trigg Thomas, have organized their membership into groups for the purpose of holding prayer services each morning during the revival, beginning Monday. These prayer services will begin at 10 a. m. promptly and close at 10:30 promptly. All of the women in Middlesboro are invited to attend the service in the districts in which they live and to lend their time and prayers to making this revival a great success.

A key woman has been appointed for each group and the town districted geographically, as follows: District number 1, Petersburg Avenue to Twenty-sixth street, key woman, Mrs. A. M. Kinnaird; District number 2, Twenty-sixth street to Twenty-fourth street, Mrs. Hugh Allen; District number 3, Twenty-fourth street to Twentieth street, including all of Exeter Avenue, Mrs. Jacob Schultz; District number 4, Dorchester Avenue, part of Englewood Road and twenty-fifth street, Mrs. Harry Moss; District number 5, Twentieth street to and including Queensbury Heights and East End, Mrs. Harry Dinger; District number 6, Edgewood Road to the Boneway Inn, including Arthur Heights, the farface district and Nineteenth street, Mrs. L. L. Robertson.

The first meeting will be with the key woman of the group, with her as a leader, except for district 1, which will meet at the manse. The meetings will be at a different house each time, however, with a different leader each time. Announcement will be made each time of the next meeting place.

THOMAS TO START
BIG WORK SUNDAY

"Making of a Man" Subject Tonight—
Evangelist Endears Self
to People Here

The First Presbyterian church was filled last night to hear Dr. Trigg Thomas, evangelist, preach one of the most effective sermons ever heard in the city. The preacher took for his text, "And he gave some apostles, some prophets, some evangelists, and some pastors and teachers." The singing was particularly good, the congregation singing with heart and spirit, under the inspiration of C. L. Nisbett, who sang a beautiful solo during the service.

After dealing with the word apostle and the word evangelist, the preacher spoke at length upon the pastoral relation and urged more cooperation between pulpit and pew. The sermon was different from that of the night before, as he was speaking largely to church members, but the sermon was none the less effective, as was evidenced by the steady interest given the speaker by his audience, who as usual hung upon every word and seemed to regret the time when he closed the Bible and said his characteristic prayer.

Dr. Thomas is endearing himself to the people of Middlesboro because of his spirit of helpfulness. Wherever he goes he prays with those he visits and his prayers are helpful and one knows he is talking with One who is like to him and is often in his thoughts. He preaches a God who is near, not remote, but close at hand, and makes his audience feel that God is near and loves them even when they go astray.

Dr. Thomas knows his Bible thoroughly and seldom reads but always recites from memory. This has an appeal that mere reading could not give him. He has not yet begun to preach his best sermons, but will begin his real evangelical effort Sunday night.

The Sunday services will be conducted by Dr. Thomas, and he will speak at 11 o'clock on the subject "The Only Foundation," and at night at 7:30, "God's Challenge To Middlesboro." This latter will sum up some of the evangelist's observations since he has come to the city and those coming may expect something out of the ordinary, as Dr. Thomas is absolutely fearless in denouncing sin and wrong no matter where found.

The Saturday night service will be at 7:30, and those who can be present even for a short time are urged to do so. The subject Saturday night will be: "The Making of a Man."

BITUMINOUS MINING
INSTABILITY CAUSES
BIG COAL TROUBLE

U. S. Coal Commission, in Report to Congress Explains Menace of High Prices and Fuel Shortage.

TRANSPORTATION IMPROVE-MENT ONLY SOLUTION

(Advance Matter) Washington, Jan. 16.—Instability in the bituminous coal mining industry is the fundamental cause of high prices and the fuel shortage which has menaced the American public repeatedly in recent years, the United States Coal Commission holds in a preliminary report of its fact finding investigation laid before Congress.

Labor troubles, transportation difficulties, and over-development of the industry in mines and manpower to a point where it is much larger than necessary to supply public demand for its product—If operations were continuous—were all three assigned as among primary causes for the condition. The exact bearing which these have upon the existing situation, the commission said, it intended to study in its further inquiry.

Regarding the possibility of another general coal strike after April 1, the report said the commission "has reason to believe that an agreement will be reached in the near future that will avert any wide-spread cessation of mine operations in union fields on April 1."

"There have been so many such complex factors operating in the coal industry to prevent the free play of economic forces," the report said in concluding "that a very detailed and comprehensive investigation is required before a valid conclusion can be reached." The inquiry involves the whole question as to what is best for the people, free competition, government or private ownership, regulation or control in the coal industry. The problem is of so great moment, with reference not only to the theories of government but also to the economic life of the republic, that the view of the commission must be left to its final report.

Must Have Steadier Work
There can be no satisfactory agreement as to wage rates, and no lasting peace between operators and men unless steadier employment can be provided. There can be no subjected to sudden peak loads of coal traffic at the season when the demands of agriculture and industry are at their heights.

"The commission believes that the public interest in coal raises fundamental questions of the relation of this industry to the nation, and of the degree to which private rights must yield to public welfare. It may be both private property in an exhaustible resource and labor in a public service industry must submit to certain modifications of their private rights, receiving in return certain guarantees and privileges not accorded to purely private business or persons in private employ."

"Run-away markets" for coal in 1920 and 1922, the commission continued, followed prolonged cessation of mining operations due to disagreement between employers and employees, but high prices also ruled from August, 1916 to March, 1918, and for that period "some other explanation of the high prices and distress must be found."

"The responsibility of settling disputes," the report remarked as to the present labor situation, "rests primarily upon the industry. The commission therefore warned miners and operators alike that the country looks to them to settle their own disputes and to reach an amicable agreement when the present contract expires."

More Money For Railroads

"Only by investing money in a transportation system vastly in excess of reasonable requirements," the report observed on the railroad aspects, "may the people of the country expect the railroads to make up within a few weeks the consequences of the five months' suspension during 1922 of a large part of coal mining."

In the over expansion of the industry, the commission concluded,

By Associated Press.
LAWRENCEBURG, Jan. 20.—Six men were arrested near Bloomfield today suspected of complicity in the death of Burdette Huffaker, guard, slain at the Old Joe distillery near Lawrenceburg ten days ago. They include Nattie Leathers, Robert McCrocklin, Jasper Mulr, Alex Shields and Rural Hughes. Officers refused to state their evidence beyond the mere statement that they believe one of the men who fired the shot was among those arrested.

WITNESS ADMITS WHISKEY
"AIN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE"

"Did you buy any whiskey?" the witness was asked in magistrate's court yesterday. "I bought something but it wasn't whiskey," declared the witness, "It tasted like walnut juice, gasoline and I don't know what all."

"Will it make you drunk?" "I'll kill you if you drink enough of it," answered the witness who had apparently had a narrow escape was to be found the reason for the fact that bituminous mines operated only 149 days during the whole working year of 1921, when no strikes intervened. This condition, it was further found, had tended to get worse in recent years, for in 18-90 its figures indicated that miners over the country worked 213 days out of the year. The investigation had early disclosed, it was added, the existence of "too many mines and too many miners."

Seasonal character of part of the demand for bituminous coal, with consequent inequality of demand through the year for services of workers and of transportation equipment, the possibility of storage in ameliorating these conditions, and the necessity for studying methods of improving distribution systems were points emphasized as under study. With all of these avenues of inquiry, the commission indicated, it would deal more fully in the future.

FRENCH KEEP UP

RUHR DISTRICT

Essen Magnates and Mine Directors

German Miners Threaten Strike

PARIS PLEASSED WITH
PROGRESS OF PROGRAM

By Associated Press.
Further drastic steps were taken by the French today in an effort to enforce reparations payments by their occupation of the Ruhr valley. Fritz Thyssen, son of a leader among Ruhr magnates, resisting French coercive measures, was arrested with five other leading mine directors who will be tried by court martial for refusing to obey orders of occupational authorities. German bankers in the Ruhr continue resistance to French measures.

At Dusseldorf directors refused to open banks while French soldiers were on the premises. Punitive action against the directors is forecast. Miners in some seizure coal pits quit work. Fifty thousand men in Beck-lingshausen mines threaten to strike today. From Germany comes the report of a national boycott expected against French and Belgian nationals. Paris expresses satisfaction with the progress of the Ruhr program.

DR. W. N. DAY, WELL-KNOWN
CLAIROBORNE DOCTOR, DIES

Dr. W. N. Day, well-known physician and business man of Claiborne County, died at his home near Lone Mountain yesterday morning at 11:30 after an extended illness. Funeral services were conducted by the Masons today at 1:30. Interment was in the family cemetery. The deceased is survived by a wife by one son, James Alvin Day, a daughter, Miss Lary Day; also by four brothers: Prior Day of Middlesboro, Jim Day of Knoxville, Sam Day of Tazewell and George Day of Harrogate.

By Associated Press.
BASTROP, Jan. 20.—H. E. Blankenship testified at open hearing into the operations of hooded men that he had identified a truck bearing a Louisiana license tag as the truck he saw August 24, in which Watt Daniel was a prisoner of hooded men. He said he recognized two of the masked men as Oliver Skipworth, son of Capt. J. L. Skipworth, head of the Morehouse parish Ku Klux Klan, and Smith Sterenson.

CORBIN EXPLOSION
INJURES TWO MEN

Blast From Dynamite Wrecks House
Where L. & N. Employees
Live

By Associated Press.
CORBIN, Jan. 20.—A blast, apparently due to dynamite exploded in a two-story boarding house containing fifteen men here early today. M. M. Ellis of Sevierville, Tenn., and P. B. Kelsner of Pulaski, Tennessee, were badly injured. The structure, house men recently employed by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. Authorities are working on the theory that this had some connection with the recent shopmen's strike. The explosive was placed in a bathroom. The structure collapsed, burying the men in the debris. It is considered remarkable that the remainder, who escaped with bruises, were not killed.

A THOUGHT

To everything there is a season, and a time for every purpose under the heaven.—Ecclesiastes 3:1.

Time is the king of men; He's both their parent, and he is their grave, And gives them what he will, not what they crave.

—Shakespeare

OWN YOUR HOME

This is "own your home" day in the national thrift week. Statistics show that usually successful men are those who own their own homes. Home-owning is recognized as one of the basic elements of thrift; it is the foundation of a successful business career and an able ally of good citizenship. Owning of a home is an anchor to the aimless wanderer; tethering him to the same town or community where his sphere of usefulness may be more effective.

It is possible for every working man or woman in Middlesboro to own their own home. Banks and loan associations advance money for this purpose on liberal terms so that a sum similar to that of the average monthly rental fees will enable any one to be the owner of his own home within a few years.

Aside from the pecuniary value of the investment, ownership of a home gives one that feeling of peace and security that is not to be found in the rented house, even though it be a mansion. If you do not own your own home, you are never certain of more than a few weeks in the same place. The landlord is your boss and if it is his good pleasure for you to move, there is nothing to do but submit to the moving van. With the security of houses now prevailing, this may mean leaving the city.

A community of peace, quietude, hospitality and good fellowship is almost invariably one of home-owners.

A house is not a home in the true sense of the word unless it is owned by the one living in it. There is a certain, yet indefinable, magic about the real home. Its fireside seems hallowed with mystic charms that take away all desire to wander.

Those who wish to make this a better Middlesboro, a city that is in reality one large family, should take steps at once to own their own homes that their footing here may be more secure.

MARRIAGE A FAILURE

Marriage is a failure. This final decision by Judge Ben B. Lindsay, who presides over the Children's Court in Denver. Not only is it a failure, but "as a social institution it has fallen miserably." There's nothing like disposing of a case when you tackle one.

Still we have an idea there will be some dissent from the opinion of this oracle, notwithstanding the judge waved a wand of statistics gathered in Denver and declared they proved everything he said.

Well, we have been hearing stuff of this sort for quite a long time. There is no answering it. Society is being wrecked and doing nothing to prevent the destruction. It is doing nothing, simply because nothing can be done. "When an institution that is absolutely right creates a thing that is absolutely wrong you can't escape the reaction," Judge Lindsay makes things beautifully plain does he not? That for marriage! Divorce and separation are absolutely necessary until the conditions that cause them are corrected. Why worry then? But, just for fun, how shall we know that we are doing the right thing? It's as easy as settling a scrap between boys over the ownership of a dog. "We simply have to psycho-analyze our social life and our conventions." There! Go to it.

Whether you be in a great city or in sparsely settled places you cannot escape the happily married. The marriage license clerks are nicely idle. And some ministers perform so many marriages it is almost a scandal. Judge Lindsay might have saved his breath—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

With the number of automobiles constantly increasing it seems that Middlesboro is destined to be a one-horse town.

There is said to be a use for everything. Even restaurant steaks would make excellent half-soles.

A bill pending in the Tennessee legislature would prohibit the manufacture of poison booze. And we thought it was already prohibited by law.

THE OPEN FORUM

AN APPEAL TO THE MEN OF THE CITY IN BEHALF OF THE BOYS OF MIDDLESBORO

Editor Daily News:

There is a movement in Middlesboro that has been struggling for existence for several years. This movement has done worthwhile things for the city. It has helped boys and the object of it is to help boys.

The reason this movement has not been what it should be is because it has not had the support of the community. It could not find men to lead its activities.

The purpose of this movement is to develop self-reliance, manhood and good citizenship. The keyword to this movement is scout-craft which includes instructions in first aid, life-saving, tracking, sign-making, cycling, nature study, camp craft and many other lines of training for usefulness.

This movement is the Boy Scout movement. There is one troop (25) of Boy Scouts here now. R. L. Maddox is the scout master. This troop will develop its membership, but what about the remainder of Middlesboro boys? Don't they need this training? They certainly do.

There are boys in this town that want to get into the Boy Scout organization but find it impossible because there are no leaders.

This movement needs men to take the leadership of these boys. It needs men for Scoutmasters and men to serve on the committees. Are the men of Middlesboro willing for the boys to miss this splendid training or account of not having leaders, or will the men come out and help these boys?

The slogan of the Boy Scout movement is: "Do a good turn daily." Why don't the men do a good turn by getting lined up with these boys and make scouting a worth while element in the curriculum of every boy's life in Middlesboro? Can the Boy Scouts count on you to help them in this matter?

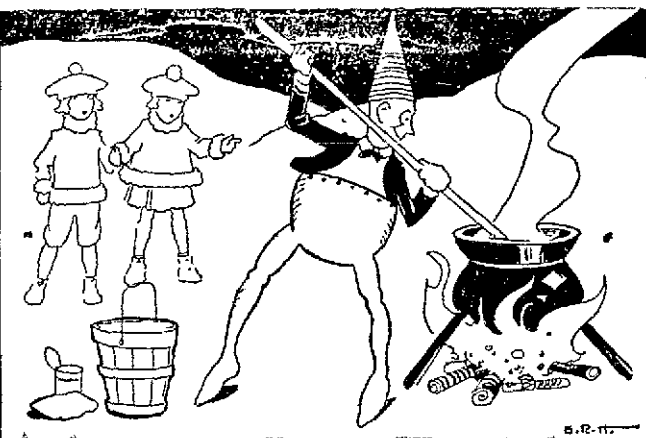

SOME INTERESTED BOY SCOUTS.

Twenty years ago today we were all looking forward to today.

Thinking you can do anything is usually correct.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

The next letter that Nancy picked up from the bundle of "lost letters" in Mr. Stamps' postoffice in the Hickory tree was addressed to Mr. Rub A. Dub, Scrub-Up Land.

It hadn't been delivered because the writing was so bad nobody could read it, but the twins with their magical glasses, had no trouble at all.

"Mr. Rub A. Dub," exclaimed the fairy postmaster. "Why land alive, he hasn't received a letter for a blue moon. He generally gets a stack along early in the spring when everybody has to go to him for a spring cleaning. Because everybody hates soap and water and they all try to get out of it. But this one's been here so long—let me see! Yes, sir! It came last spring and it's been here ever since. Nearly a year old!"

"Shall we take it to Mr. Rub A. Dub?" asked Nancy.

"If you please, ma'am, if you please," said Mr. Stamps turning away to tell Scramble Squirrel that there was no mail for him that day.

Off to Scrub-Up Land went the Twins, and found Mr. Rub A. Dub boiling soft soap and getting ready for his spring cleaning.

"Hello, kiddies!" he cried. "What a letter! Well, I declare!" He tore it open and read:

"Dear Mr. Atubadub: "Please don't you think I am clean enough without scrubbing me this time. I hate water, and I always catch cold and it spoils my complexion, and the soap fades me, and anyway, I'm clean enough. It isn't as though I had feathers of fur all over me."

Yours truly,

"Dillie Toad."

"P. S.—I always take my skin off anyway like Phil Frog, so what's the use?"

Rubadub laughed. "Poor Tilly! I didn't get her letter in time last year, but I'll remember this time. I'll let her alone. Thank you very much, kiddies. Come again soon!"

One nice thing about these sensational murders is we soon get new ones to argue about.

American millionaire chewing gum king, who knows the value of a nickel.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Thrift in its every form is a blessing both to the individual who practices it, and for the whole country in general.

Thrift, far differentiated from stinginess, consists of intelligent conservation of surplus together with a determination to save from each income source a stipulated budget amount.

Every successful business man saves. He saved while he was young, which is one reason perhaps why he is rich today.

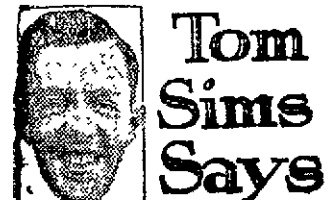

It is thrift that builds success homes, factories and automobiles alike. Likewise, thrift makes everything that counts possible.

FLAWS

By Berton Braley

On the whole, my table manners aren't so bad,

I am silent in consuming cous-cousme

At an early time of life I quit eating with my knife

And I think I use my fork the proper way.

I don't even cut my salad, I don't stoop

To inhale my coffee audibly as some

But—I like to crumble crackers in my soup

And I like to peel an orange with my thumb,

I swim

I'd rather peel an orange with my thumb!

I spill very few potatoes on my vest,

I drop very little gravy in my lap.

And mother's teaching fingers so I do not lick my fingers,

Nor get pumpkin pie, regardless,

on my nap;

By experience my manners have become

Quite refined enough for almost any group,

Still—I like to peel an orange with my thumb

And I like to crumble crackers in my soup,

Poor dupe

I like to crumble crackers in my soup!

There are things that social training cannot cure,

There are vulgar tastes that cannot be denied,

And though otherwise in terror of the slightest social error,

There's a case where all conventions are defied,

Though it wreck my whole career beyond repair,

Though my hostess and host look very glum,

I shall always crumble crackers in my soup,

I shall always peel an orange with my thumb,

Ho hum,

I just love to peel an orange with my thumb!

There is no excuse for a rich man being a bachelor and no excuse for a bachelor not being rich.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

KATE WARD, widow of DAN WARD, living with her father, JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor, CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Dan was father of her child.

DOROTHY. Near their home, a few nights later, Kate and her father pick up a man, unconscious, victim of an auto crash. In their cottage he recovers and gives his name as JAMES LATHAM.

Kate, shortly afterward, declares his love for her, but Kate still devoted to Dan's memory, despite Alice's story, does not know what to say. "Give me time to think," she cries.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Latham's hand closed over Kate's. Suddenly she had the feeling of youth again. It seemed that she was years younger than he. And she wanted to talk. She had never talked to anyone of Dan. She wanted to now.

"You know Jimmy," she said, "there has been one man for me—I cared so much for him that I thought I never could care again. It seemed to me that life had done enough for me in just giving me this love for the little while that I had it."

"And why haven't you it now?" asked Latham.

"He's dead," Kate almost whispered the words.

"And if that love were still so real a thing to you," Latham was speaking slowly, "you would not speak of it as having had it for only a little while—you would still have it." He knew the words were cruel. But as Kate seemed younger and more childish, so Latham became older in experience and stronger. He became master of the situation.

Kate was hurt as he knew she would be.

"Forgive me—perhaps I was too brutal," he said, and then added, "but it is true."

The remainder of the journey was made in silence. It was not until the roadster was turning into the drive beside Justin Parsons' little cottage that James Latham spoke again. "Lady Fair," he said, "what was the name of this man you loved so much?"

"Dan Ward," Kate replied without looking at him.

"Dan Ward—" he repeated, "Dan Ward—I knew him."

"You knew him?" half curiously. "Yes—I knew him."

And that was all. The shadow of tears hid Kate's look of surprise and curiosity. She asked no question. Her hand rested lightly for a second in Latham's as she said "Good night" to him. Her voice was cool and calm. It gave no hint of tumult within.

Alone, however, the thought haunted her. It gave her no peace. "This strange youth had known Dan. And he had asked her to call him 'Jimmy,' just as the voice had said!

Did he somehow hold the key to the whole situation? Had his life crossed somewhere with that of Alice?

Kate wished suddenly that she had told him of the "voice" and its foolish prophecies.

And she wished, vaguely, that she could escape the whole troublesome thing, the haunting thought of Alice and Dorothy, the aching loneliness and the mystery.

ENGINEER LOSES LAW SUIT.

Pineville, Jan. 19.—F. M. Evans, formerly a road engineer in Bell County, who was suing the county for $1,200 salary lost his suit in Circuit Court Tuesday before Judge E. J. Forrester. The jury, on preliminary instruction from the judge, found for the county. The plaintiff in the suit was discharged as road engineer in the county and the suit grew out of the discharge.

ABOUT BEN ADHEM

About Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase!)
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw within the moonlight of his room,
Making it rich, and like a lily in bloom,
An angel writing in a book of gold;
Exceeding peace had been Ben Adhem's good,
And to the presence in the room he said,
"What writest thou?" the angel raised its head,
And with a look made of all sweet accord,
Answered, "The names of those who love the Lord."
"And is mine one?" said About. "Nay, not so,"
Replied the angel. About spoke more low,
But cheerily still; and said, "prayer thee, then,
Write me as one that loves his fellowmen."
The angel wrote and vanished. The next night
It came again with a great awakening light,
And showed the names whom love of God had blessed,
And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest.

Good Manners

At any public entertainment or gathering—opera or lecture—it is very bad form to arrive late. If tardiness is unavoidable, however, one should remain at the rear of the auditorium until an intermission. Then one may take one's seat, with an apology to those it is necessary to disturb.

Woman's Club to Meet Monday

The regular meeting of the Woman's Club will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at the Booneway Inn.

TODAY'S RECIPES

AUNT ELIZA'S COOKIES

By Bertie E. Shapleigh, Of Columbia University

1 egg, well beaten
1 1/2 cups sugar
2-3 cup lard and butter mixed, or all butter
2-3 cup sour milk
1 cup chopped raisins
Flour to make stiff enough to roll

1 teaspoon soda, added to the sour milk or sifted with the flour.
Roll to 1-4 inch thick, cut and bake 10 minutes.

These cookies are better if allowed to stand two or three days in a stone jar before using, as they are not crisp, but soft and quite thick. Also all cookie dough is more easily handled if allowed to stand in a cold place for several hours after mixing.

SULPHUR CLEARS ROUGH, RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist.

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

waived examination and will appear before the Bell County grand jury on March 12. He will be tried by Magistrate Chas. G. Smyth Saturday on the charge of transporting liquor.

IN MEMORIAM

It has been the inevitable decree of Almighty God to call from her earthly abode to a home provided for her in the spiritual realm our beloved sister, Nellie Castle and though bitter the cup, we bow with humble submission to His Divine Will.

In sorrowing with the beloved ones of her immediate family we are constantly reminded of her many deeds of kindness and the sterling qualities of our beloved sister, her stalwart Christian character, her gentle smile and disposition, her devotion to duty and to preserve her in our memory we would ever strive to emulate her example.

Therefore be it resolved by this Chapter in session assembled that on the death of our sister we have sustained a great loss, but the lustre of the fifth point of our star has been dimmed, and that we will miss her greatly in our broken circle.

Be it further resolved that we extend to her bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and point them to The Infinite Father for His watchful care.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this Chapter, a copy furnished to the bereaved family and that they be published in the papers of our City.

Wash Kidneys If They Hurt

Take Salts to flush Kidneys If Back pains you or Bladder bothers.

Flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much meat and rich food may form uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink.

RED PEPPER FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It can't hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

GET IT AT LEE'S

GETTING started is the hardest part of doing anything. You know as well as we do that to own your home means gratifying independence, economy, happiness for you. There is no argument on that point.

But it is easy to let things slide. The trouble is—tomorrow never comes. Phone us, write us, come to see us—but do it today—now while you think of it. We have a plan that will save you money and will make you independent. Ask about it today.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Brooks have moved into the home of I. J. Porter on Virginia Avenue.

Injured feelings seldom fully recover.

Every man longs for a nice home to stay away from.

A new broom may sweep clean, but it always wears out.

CHANGE OF LIFE

Florida Lady Was in a Miserable Condition, But Says She Found Cardui Helpful, and Got Well.

Altha, Fla.—In explaining how she found Cardui so helpful during change of life, Mrs. Ella M. Bailey, of Route 2, this place, said:

"I became so weakened it was an effort for me to get around. I knew what was the matter, but I felt like I couldn't give up."

"I just dragged, and I certainly was nervous. I was so restless I could not sit down long—yet so weak I couldn't get about. It is a most miserable and such a helpless feeling."

"I would get depressed and out of heart."

"I began to feel, after awhile, there was no use to try to get well. This is all wrong, for it makes a person worse."

"I had heard of Cardui, and thought it might strengthen me. A neighbor had used it with good results."

"I took one bottle (of Cardui), then I saw I wasn't so nervous, so kept it up. Gradually the nervousness left me. I began to eat and sleep better. Was soon well, and all right. Cardui did wonders for me, and I certainly do recommend it."

Thousands of other women have written, to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others.

By Charles P. Stewart

France having made good her threat to try hurrying up payment of her war claims by a seizure of German territory a state of affairs exists in Europe which may end in any one of a good many kinds of different trouble.

For instance, a revolution in Germany wouldn't surprise anybody. Any government which permits the country it rules to be invaded by a foreign power's troops is bound to be blamed. This finishes discontented elements with a chance to grab at control. On one hand, the German "reds" might attempt it. On the other hand, the royalists might.

Or the Russians might think it an opportune time to try to gain some advantage.

The "little entente," consisting of new, war-torn countries in eastern Europe, is a source of uneasiness. In fact, it's understood their premiers are about to meet at Belgrade to adopt a plan, similar to France's against Hungary.

Italy, just on general principles, is so uneasy that Premier Mussolini has ordered a partial mobilization.

Trouble in western and central Europe, by distracting attention from the turbulent Near East, makes Turkey very independent.

The fact that it's impossible to tell what may happen, or where, only adds to the feeling of anxiety.

France Almost Gone

London and Washington disapprove strongly of what France has done.

It isn't that there's any sympathy at either of these capitals with Germany. They both consider that if the Germans are able to pay, they ought to be compelled to do it. But they regard it as at least very doubtful if Germany is able to do so. Just as they were hoping the world was going to settle down, with some prospects of a return to "normalcy," they're much dissatisfied with France's refusal to abandon a policy calculated to upset everything again.

Premier Bonar Law of England marked his objections to the French course by quitting the conference with the French, Italian and Belgian premiers when he found he wasn't going to be listened to.

It has been learned that Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador to France without actually protesting against the French advance into the Ruhr, did tell Premier Poincare that the Washington administration was opposed to it.

Roland W. Borden, official American representative on the reparations commission, likewise told the French, Italian and Belgian delegates that he didn't believe Germany could pay France's claims and said he agreed with England.

The United States, too, recalled her few troops still on German soil. They didn't mean much in a military way, but they recall-implied a protest. It seems even Premier Mussolini protested, though Italy voted with France on the reparations commission. Only Belgium is co-operating wholeheartedly with the French.

Germany Doesn't Resist

France first seized Essen, seat of the great Krupp factories; then Gelsenkirchen, center of the Ruhr coal industry; it's expected that more occupations will follow.

There was a hostile gathering but not much trouble at Essen. Munich also has been the scene of an anti-French gathering and Bavaria generally, which is regarded as royalist, is reported excited. The Memel district, in East Prussia, is in a state of disorder reported in some quarters to mean a desire to join the new republic of Lithuania; in others to be anti-French.

The German Government, however, sanctioned no resistance to the French invasion, saying it sticks to the Versailles treaty, which it accuses France of breaking. It recalled the German diplomatic representatives from Paris and Brussels and gave notice that any talk of paying France and Belgium is off until their troops are out of Germany.

German protests against the Ruhr invasion were sent to London and Washington, but it's understood they won't be answered. England and the United States feeling, despite their disapproval of the French course, that there isn't anything they can do about it at present.

What Comes Next?

There are plenty of signs that the French, now they're in the Ruhr, hardly know what to do next.

Presumably they had counted on dealing there with the great Rhineland Coal Syndicate, but the organization, just before their arrival moved bag and baggage to Hamburg. It had to leave its property behind, but they must be worked to enable the French to get anything out of them and the French will lack the workers' good will. They might bring their own from home, but moving an entire industrial population from one country to another is a tremendous undertaking.

The difficulties she faces may be responsible for France's talk now of a considerable extension in the time permitted Germany to meet the damage claims against her. France in the meantime retaining control in the Ruhr and exacting certain other conditions, such as Germany's submission to allied supervision of her finances, to living within her income and to raising an international loan to stabilize the mark.

But will Germany agree? That probably will depend on the multiplication of her own difficulties and the result of her observation of France's

Keeping The Door Open

When the French government sent troops into the Ruhr, it was interpreted generally as a rejection of Secretary of State Hughes' proposal of an international board of financiers to decide how much Germany was able to pay.

Maybe this was a mistake. It seems the Hughes plan was laid definitely before Premier Poincare, who neither turned it down nor expressed any hostility toward it.

Hopes are entertained that it may be accepted yet, if the Ruhr venture proves a failure. At any rate it is said the Washington government is keeping the "door open," with a view to a tender of its "good offices" if it receives any intimation that it would be well received.

The Poincare government's position in England and America has not been strengthened by the existence of a widely expressed suspicion in both countries that the Ruhr expedition was dictated by nothing but hope of gaining political advantage at home through what it thought would be a popular move.

Naturally it is the consensus of opinion that the world's peace never should have been endangered for any such reason.

Nevertheless it's felt that the government, if such as its motive, will be likely to change its policy very quickly if it finds it made a mistake, which is what it probably will find if it can't get much out of Germany and English and American coldness affects France's own credit unfavorably.

If you don't want to associate with reformers in the next world do what is right in this.

Be Thrifty

By Ellen O'Byrne DeWitt
New York's Thriftiest Woman

Don't ask for charity. Then you'll never find out how cold the world is.

Don't gossip.
Do something useful every minute. If there's nothing else to do one can always sew. Until my boys went into long trousers I made every bit of their clothing.

Feeds Castor Oil to Sheiks

Thelma Reed, 16, married a man at Indianapolis and tired of him when she saw him vaselining his hair, she says. So, for revenge, she went to Chicago and took a job in a soda fountain where she put castor oil in all soda served to sheik-like young men, she reveals. Now she's going back to Tipton.

Use good English. It gives people a better impression of you. I taught myself good English by listening to others' speech.

Read books that deal with thrift and successful men and women. They put backbone into you. Sentimental novels take it away.

Save. But save judiciously. Spend the same way. Don't try to get rich quick, but if you've got a good idea, fight for it. I had an idea the world wanted an Irish music store but I had to fight every step of the way. Be kind. It pays.

Court Opens Here Monday

With the opening prayer by Rev. Trigg Thomas, civil court will be formally convened in the circuit court room here Monday morning at 9 o'clock, Judge J. G. Forrester presiding. A number of civil cases have been docketed for the week.

BUILD A HOME

If you're living in a tent,
Build a home.
If you're sick of paying rent,
Build a home.
You can pay and pay and pay
To the landlord till you're gray;
He can kick you out next day—
Build a home!

If you hate to move around,
Build a home.
If content you've never found,
Build a home.
If you never seem to find,
Just the house you have in mind,
If you want some certain kind,
Build a home.

If you're weary of a flat,
Build a home.

One that isn't yours, at that,
Build a home.
If you're tired of coming thru
For what won't belong to you,
There's just one thing to do—
Build a home!

If you own a little lot,
Build a home;
Or go buy you one, if not,
Build a home.
Get a little bit of land
Where the world will understand
You're the only owner and
Build a home.

Start to plan, begin to dream,
Build a home.
Start to save, begin to scheme,
Build a home.

Lay a little money by
Daily, weekly, monthly—why
It is easy if you try—
Build a home!

If you want to walk erect,
Build a home.
Want your family's respect,
Build a home.

If you want the kids to grow
Healthy, hearty, happy so
What a home is they will know—
Build a home!
